หัวข้อเนื้อหา

- ความหมายและความสำคัญของ Document Delivery
- ประเภทของฐานข้อมูลและพัฒนาการในการใช้งาน
- ฐานข้อมูล Document Delivery จากต่างประเทศ
- ประโยชน์และปัญหาในการใช้ฐานข้อมูล/บริการ Document Delivery จากต่างประเทศ

➡ ความหมายและความสำคัญของ Document Delivery

- ❑ A Key element in access to information ... involves the integration of document discovery, the location of a supplier, request and delivery
- ❑ A complex process which spans time and distance between customer and supplier

➡ ความหมายและความสำคัญของ

Document Delivery (ต่อ)

- ❑ The Transfer of a document from a supplier to a requesting library or directly to an end-user
- ❑ The set of processes associated with the delivery of a specific document, thus including selection, requesting and final transfer

➡ ความหมายและความสำคัญของ

Document Delivery (ต่อ)

- ❑ The sharing of documents (that is, books, reports, articles and other bibliographic items) by means of resource sharing amongst libraries or via purchase from commercial suppliers
- ❑ The heart of the services offered by libraries, publishers and others in the information industry ... the delivery of both print and electronic documents

➡ ประเภทของฐานข้อมูล และพัฒนาการในการใช้งาน

■ Reference and source databases

■ Reference databases

1. Bibliographic databases
2. Catalogue databases
3. Referral databases

■ Source databases

1. Numeric databases
2. Full-text databases
3. Text-numeric databases
4. Multimedia databases

➡ ประเภทของฐานข้อมูล และพัฒนากาการในการใช้งาน (ต่อ)

The three generations of online searching

First generation (until 1981)

- Dumb terminals
- Slow transmission speeds
- Bibliographic databases
- Intermediary searching
- Commercial online systems such as DIALOG

➡ ประเภทของฐานข้อมูล และพัฒนาการในการใช้งาน (ต่อ)

Second generation (1982-1991)

- PCs as workstation
- Medium transmission speeds
- Bibliographic, directory and ASCII full-text databases
- Specialized end-users and intermediaries

➡ ประเภทของฐานข้อมูล และพัฒนาการในการทำงาน (ต่อ)

Third generation
(1991-present)

- Multimedia PCs
- Higher transmission speeds
- ASCII and full-text databases
- Consumer end-users
- Intermediaries and specialized end-users

Copyright fees

All prices quoted are exclusive of copyright fees. We will charge a publication-specific copyright fee when requested or when a copyright fee is mandatory. Current fees are listed at: www.bl.uk/serials

VAT

All prices quoted are exclusive of VAT (Value Added Tax). Customers based in the European Union must comply with the VAT and statistical reporting routine for the EU single market, and we therefore need your VAT number for our records. If you have not told us your VAT number, we are required to charge you VAT at 17.5%. VAT is not charged on loans or patents or to customers based outside the European Union.

Operating hours for 2-hour and 24-hour postal despatch

2-hour despatch: In order for us to get your documents despatched within 2 hours, we have to be able to have the order copied and ready to go before the last pick-up of mail each day by the Royal Mail. Because of this, we can only process requests for 2-hour postal delivery if the request arrives at the British Library before 14.00 (2.00pm) UK time, Monday to Friday. If your request arrives after this time, it will be timed from 08.00 the following working day.

24-hour despatch: We can only process requests for 24-hour postal delivery if the request arrives between Monday and Friday (excluding public holidays). Orders for 24 hour despatch received on a Friday might be dealt with on the following Monday. In the event of a public holiday, these will be timed from 08.00 on the next working day.

Order online from our document supply service

If you don't have an account with the British Library, you can ask for copies to be delivered by post or as encrypted PDF files through British Library Direct or the Integrated Catalogue. Customers in the UK and Ireland can often order copies or items on loan through their local library's Inter-Library Loan service.

Free access to the British Library catalogue for all customers, whether or not you have a British Library account, plus a range of ordering options.
- ARTWeb - Online order form for customers with a British Library account.
- British Library Direct - Search 5 years of article-level data from thousands of our most popular journal titles in all fields and order online and pay by credit or debit card. For customers without a British Library account.
- British Thesis Service order form
Customers can order from more than 140,000 UK Doctoral theses whether or not they have a British Library account.

➔ The British Library Document Supply Centre (BLDSC)

Publication-specific copyright fees must be paid on all documents where appropriate. Read our Copyright and Document Supply page for full information on when you need to ask to pay a copyright fee.

Integrated Catalogue records for serial titles include copyright fees. Details are also available in our Current Serials Received database for those journal series to which we currently subscribe.

Registration: opening a British Library account

To make the most effective use of all our services we recommend that organisations register with us and open a British Library account. Registration is free and has the following advantages: competitively priced documents, loan of material, a customer care programme, plus other benefits. Individuals can also register, but must pay a copyright fee on all documents ordered and cannot receive material on loan.

If you have only an occasional need for documents, you may prefer not to register, in which case you can ask for copies to be delivered by post or as encrypted PDF files through British Library Direct or the Integrated Catalogue.

What are copyright fees and why do I need to pay?

Copyright is important because it protects the interests of those who create and those who invest in creativity. If there was no copyright, it would be impossible for creative people to make a living from their creativity. No one would be willing to come up with the money to make a film, to write or publish a book or journal, or to bring out a record - because there would be no way of earning a return on that investment. Now that it is so easy to copy material, it is more vital than ever that we respect copyright so that people continue to produce the creative works that society needs. This is why copyright law has a method for providing financial reward to creators for uses of their intellectual property.

The traditional method of recompensing the creator and/or the investor in creativity (normally the publisher) is to purchase a copy of the book or recording or take out a subscription to a journal. Some people, for a whole variety of reasons, do not always wish to do this. They may only want to read a single journal article or book chapter and feel that a subscription or purchase of the complete publication is simply not worth the cost. In response to this need, some publishers now sell single articles from their journals.

However, it is often much easier to obtain a copy via a supplier such as the British Library. This, too, deprives the author and publisher of income and therefore the law now says that in many circumstances a copyright fee must be charged. (See below for circumstances where a fee may not be charged.) If you pay the copyright fee, and abide by any terms and conditions associated with the provision of the article (for example, you cannot re-distribute or re-sell it because this would also deprive the author or publisher of income), you will not be in breach of copyright.

➔ The British Library Document Supply Centre (BLDSC)

When do I need to pay a copyright fee?

Although there are some exceptions, you will need to pay a copyright fee in most cases, including:

- If the document you are ordering is intended for any kind of commercial use whatsoever, or research / private study with a commercial purpose
- If you are not registered with the British Library or are registered as an individual
- If you are based in the USA
- If you order a document to be supplied by secure electronic delivery. Customers based in the UK and Ireland may order Library Privilege documents to be supplied by Standard or 24 hour secure electronic delivery, but 2 hour secure electronic delivery always requires payment of a copyright fee.
- If you are ordering more than one copy of the same article, or more than one article from the same issue of the journal (a separate copyright fee will have to be paid for each copy we make)
- If you want to circulate copies within your organisation.

For more information on the definition of 'commercial use', see our FAQs on Copyright.

Important: Paying the copyright fee does not mean that you are allowed to make further copies from the document without permission or an appropriate licence.

You do not need to pay a copyright fee for an item ordered on loan.

➔ The British Library Document Supply Centre (BLDSC)

Are there occasions when a copyright fee is not necessary?

You do not need to pay a copyright fee if:

- You are ordering the item on loan
- The copy is wanted for research for a non-commercial purpose or private study and you are making the request via an organisation registered with the British Library (note that this does not apply if you are based in the USA). For more information on the definition of 'commercial use', see our FAQs on Copyright.
- The copy is required for parliamentary or judicial proceedings, a Royal Commission or statutory inquiry.
- The copy is required to replace an item that has been lost or damaged, but this is only available for publicly funded libraries in the UK.

If a copyright fee does not need to be paid on the copy you are ordering, we call it a Library Privilege copy. The person who wants the Library Privilege copy, i.e. the end user, must sign a Copyright Declaration Form in order to declare that they are not knowingly breaking copyright law. You can download Copyright Declaration Forms from www.bl.uk/copyright (PDF format). If the Library Privilege copy is delivered electronically or by fax, you must ensure that a similar declaration is signed. You do not return these forms to us, but instead should keep them for a minimum of seven years in case the rights owner, or their agent, requests an audit of the Library Privilege service.

➔ The British Library Document Supply Centre (BLDSC)

How much is the copyright fee?

The publishers set copyright fees, either by themselves or through their agents, and the fees will therefore differ from publication to publication. The average level is around £7.50, but they can be much higher.

You can check the copyright fees for journals on these online databases:

- ➔ Current Serials - journals we currently subscribe to for our Document Supply collection
- ➔ Integrated Catalogue

Please note that the copyright fees displayed on these files are indicative only. The actual copyright fee we will charge is that which is on our internal system at the time the copy is made. This may vary slightly because of currency fluctuations and, in a few cases, may be changed by the publisher or their agents during the quarter. We will do our utmost to keep such changes to a minimum, but occasionally we may have to make changes for reasons that are outside our direct control.

A default copyright fee of £5.00 per item is charged on certain non-journal material, such as conference proceedings and books. A fee of £0.00 applies to all items published over 100 years ago, plus certain material for which the rightsholder has set a fee of zero.

Current Serials Received lets you search the serial titles to which we subscribe. All the titles are available through our Document Supply service and Reading Rooms.

You can:

- browse and search the main list of serials;
- browse the list of cover-to-cover translations from Cyrillic journals; and
- browse and search the list of serials in Cyrillic script.

Overall, Current Serials Received holds the titles of over 60,000 serials to which the British Library subscribes. You can order copies through our Document Supply service or view them in our Reading Rooms. The file is updated quarterly.

You can search the full list of more than 250,000 serial titles that we hold, including titles that are no longer published or that we have stopped buying, on the Integrated Catalogue.

Please note: the copyright fees displayed on the Current Serials Received file are indicative only. The actual fee charged is that which is on our internal system at the time the copy is made. This may vary slightly because of currency fluctuations and in a few cases may be updated during the quarter. We will do our utmost to keep such changes to a minimum but occasionally we may have to make changes for reasons that are outside our direct control.

Products & Services > Document Delivery

Infotrieve's document delivery service provides the information you need, when you need it. Specializing in scientific, technical and medical (STM) content, Infotrieve is known as 'the leader in article research and document delivery.' Infotrieve has access to the world's largest libraries of article and journal content, a collection that is constantly expanding through the company's ongoing partnership and alliances with publishers and content producers. If you know which documents you need, order them quickly and easily with our basic order form; or use our robust databases including ArticleFinder, Table of Contents and our link to MEDLINE® /PubMed® to discover the information you require.

Infotrieve is a full-service document delivery company, which means we do more than just provide documents. We offer a single point of access to a wide variety of sources, tracking the statistics you need, and adapting the process to fit your workflow -- we add value to the entire process. Our service is not limited to a particular collection or database, our "Ends of the Earth" service will find your article anywhere in the world.

Document Delivery

You and your patrons can purchase individual articles via pay-per-view, using a credit card or by setting up a payment account.

Pay-per-view

Use the shopping cart facility to pay-per-view articles. These can be downloaded and saved immediately or within 24 hours. Pay-per-view charges are set by the individual publisher, together with an IngentaConnect delivery charge of $10.00 for online and $15.00 for fax or Ariel deliveries. Issues and volumes of certain publications can also be purchased, and there are also a number of publications with sample issues or free trials available.

IngentaConnect accepts all major credit cards.

Payment accounts

Setting up a Payment Account allows you to control your budget, while providing patrons with access to articles from non-subscribed publications:

- Access can be made available to all those within your library, or limited to smaller groups.
- Funding can be segmented by department and further cost centers created for billing back to projects.
- Control can be maintained by setting limits on the amount spent within a time period or per item.
- Reports delivered monthly allow you to track spending habits. Used in collaboration with IngentaConnect usage statistics, efficient budgeting can be achieved.
- Discounts are available for large-volume orders.

What is WorldCat?

WorldCat is the world's largest network of library content and services. WorldCat libraries are dedicated to providing access to their resources on the Web, where most people start their search for information.

What am I searching?

WorldCat.org lets you search the collections of libraries in your community and thousands more around the world. WorldCat grows every day thanks to the efforts of librarians and other information professionals.

What will I find?

You can search for popular books, music CDs and videos—all of the physical items you're used to getting from libraries. You can also discover many new kinds of digital content, such as downloadable audiobooks. You may also find article citations with links to their full text; authoritative research materials, such as documents and photos of local or historic significance; and digital versions of rare items that aren't available to the public. Because WorldCat libraries serve diverse communities in dozens of countries, resources are available in many languages.

Can I check something out?

It depends on whether you have an active membership with a library that owns the item, and whether that library's Web site permits remote checkout of an item. WorldCat.org lets you find an item of interest and then locate a library near you that owns it. Usually you will link directly to the item record on the library's Web site. The actions available to you on that page will vary from one library to another. You may be able to join a waiting list, reserve the item, check it out or even have it shipped or delivered.

Can I get to electronic databases?

WorldCat.org lets you:

- Search many libraries at once for an item and then locate it in a library nearby
- Find books, music, and videos to check out
- Find research articles and digital items (like audiobooks) that can be directly viewed or downloaded
- Link to "Ask a Librarian" and other services at your library
- Post your review of an item, or contribute factual information about it

Can I get into electronic databases?

Some WorldCat libraries make their specialized reference databases available on their Web sites, but only to library members. Your search on WorldCat.org may produce direct links to articles and other resources in these databases. To access these resources, though, you may first be required to log in with a valid library membership.

Can I ask for help from a librarian?

Yes! WorldCat results often include a direct link to the "Ask a Librarian" help feature of a library's Web site.

Can I add information to WorldCat?

Yes! On the WorldCat page for a particular item, you can enter a rating and review under the "Reviews" tab, and contribute factual notes or a book's table of contents under the "Details" tab. Note that only you can modify or delete your own review, but other users can edit information that has been contributed under Details (similar to Wikipedia).

WorldCat.org lets you:

- Find books, music, and videos to check out
- Find research articles and digital items (like audiobooks) that can be directly viewed or downloaded
- Link to "Ask a Librarian" and other services at your library
- Post your review of an item, or contribute factual information about it

You may need to have an active offline membership with a WorldCat library to view/download content or check out materials through its Web site.
